PRESIDENTS MESSAGE

I would like to start off by saying something I already have said, Thanks to all who help at the Archaeology Fair, with a special thanks going to Tom Ratel, Bill Logue, Ed Fanuzzi, Colin Heng (for taking great pictures), and every one who came to show support of their club. Avery and Harry came and put on display some real nice finds and represented the New York search and recovery club in Brooklyn.

I must say also at the fair was Fred DeLise representing the Richmond Research Recovery club. Fred did a great job and he had a beautiful display of artifacts and Metal detecting equipment. The Staten Island History Hunters & Richmond Research Recovery both gave out gifts and let the kids do some pin pointing for some coins. All in all I feel every one had a great time.

Also on a good note we were greeted very well by all the Archaeology members. That was a very good feeling. I was able to get Doctor Steven Okulewicz to com a speak for us in the very near future.

We have had two Virginia hunts so far, and it's hard to say which one was better the first or the second. They were both great, but by vote, the hunters that went are pointing towards # 2. That tells me they're only getting better as we go along. I can tell you this our two events coordinators Carter and Keith as well as Mike Burns are currently working on trying to get a place in Connecticut that looks good. We will let you know as soon as we know what's going on.

I'm currently working on some exciting things for this year that I feel you'll all enjoy so please stay in touch with the clubs web site www.statenislandhistoryhunter.com, it's continually being updated by Keith. Thank you Keith.

In the next couple of months we will be getting back to Pouch camp to teach the boy and girl scouts how to metal detect. There will be more to come on that.

Happy Hunting~ John

REALE HUNTING ROAD TRIP

Some serious storms and beach erosion led to a weekend of intense searching for Reales on a beach in New Jersey.

Previously, Woody from the Pennsylvania club (SPHRG) found himself a gorgeous Reale, which he displays proudly on a necklace made just for the piece (see pic page 3). There have also been other reports of Reales being found on the beach after a good storm.

Myself, Carter P, Mike B & Fred D, from the club all descended on the area for a few days, even hunting by headlamp after the storm, as the low tide peaked after midnight. We were later happy to be joined by Steve C. and Brian from the club. (cont'd. Pg 3)

METAL DETECTING IN THE NEWS

Fake Indian Head & Large Cents From Susan Headley, former About.com Guide

This container is full of Chinese-made fake Indian Head Cents and fake U.S. Large Cents. The dates on the fake Large Cents include 1854 and 1857. Fake Indian Head Cents I have seen in their photos include 1869, 1870, 1871, 1872, 1877, 1908-S, and 1909-S. I've also seen photos of fake 1856 Flying Eagle Cents. As you can see, this ring seems to prefer making counterfeits of key coins and the other more valuable dates, sometimes to the point of absurdity, as in their fake 1913 Liberty Nickels. Don't be fooled, though. I've also seen plenty of more common dates. When it only costs you 2 - 4 cents per coin to make them, even selling them for a "paltry" $15 or $20 each is an excellent profit. And anyway, these guys claim they don't sell singles. They're self-proclaimed "replica wholesalers" and it's not their fault if other people misrepresent their merchandise. They claim they're merely filling a demand in the marketplace

Brooch That Was Part Of Ancient Jewelry And Other Precious Objects Revealed By Austria (Photo) By Alex Madlangbayan on Apr 23, 2011

Austria's federal conservation authority revealed, that a brooch and ring was part of an ancient jewelry and other precious objects that were found buried by an Austrian man. The revelation was made public by Austrian authorities through an issued statement on Friday, April 22, 2011.

The 650-year-old treasure trove includes more than 200 rings, ornate belt buckles, gold-plated silver plates and other objects that were adorned with pearls, coral fossils and other ornaments.

Reports say that the man who dug the treasure was Andreas K. from Wiener Neustadt, South of Vienna in 2007..

The Austrian unearthed the hidden treasure while digging in his back yard.

Authorities described the ornaments in the statement as "one of the qualitatively most significant discoveries of medieval treasure in Austria."

It was quite the storm

It was evident by the amount of cars lined up on the roadway to the beach, with their occupants waiting out the storm, that this site was no longer a secret.

Hotels were in short supply in the area (just ask Steve C.), and many just slept in their cars, but I'm thinking it just may have been the volume of treasure seekers in town that weekend that caused the nearby hotel shortage. We managed to get a room at the Econolodge, but let's just say economy has its drawbacks.

In the end, no Reales were found. The storm refused to give up the loot, and only washed more sand on top of what was already there, actually making the targets deeper, and leaving no good cuts for us to search.

The weekend was not a total loss though. The weather turned beautiful, and the company of fellow hobbyists made for an enjoyable day.

YOU MIGHT BE A DETECTORIST IF ...

This has been floating around for a while, but it's always worth reading again for a laugh

To the vein of "You Might Be a Redneck..."

You Might Be a Detectorist...

...if you'll step over a penny on the sidewalk, but will dig six inches for a dirty penny.

...if you hide your detecting magazines so the kids don't mess them up.

...if your spouse says in a seductive voice, "Let's do something you want to do for a change", and you start packing the detectors for a hunt.

...if you have a nightmare where a favorite spot becomes posted "off limits" and you have to drive out to see that it's not posted before you can go back to sleep.

...if you've ever cleaned your coins in the kitchen using the good bowls.

...if you mark your calendar to go to the fair on the day after the fair closes.

...if you plan your family vacations around places that are good to detect.

...if you'd rather your kid become an archeologist than a doctor.

...if your idea of a college fund is the clad coins you've dug up.

...if your kids have to go "beep, beep, beep" to get your attention.

...if your children were named after detectors.

...if you have a room in your house covered with maps and dedicated to research, but no living room.

...if your car, truck, boat or even your house, matches your detector.

...if your detector has a name other than the one the manufacturer gave it.

...if you have a heart tattoo and the name of your detector in the middle of it.

...if you skip lunch so you'll have money for batteries for your detector.

...if you're looking for a new home and the realtor locks the car doors, but you think the rundown neighborhood with abandoned houses looks like a good option.

...if you cash your paycheck and ask to be paid in rolled coins.

...if the thought of a scratched coin makes you even a little bit sad.

...if you cheer the hurricane as it makes deep cuts in the local beach.

...if you took notes when your grandfather told old treasure tales.

...if you volunteer at a nursing home because the leads are good.

...if you guard a good site like a good fishing hole.

...if you've ever offered to mow a vacant lot for permission to hunt it.

...if sayings like "every cloud has a silver lining" or "making golden memories" make you think about a good detecting hunt.

...if your car is ten years old, but you have the latest detector.

...if your shoes are ten years old, but you have the latest detector.

...if you have no shoes, but you have the latest detector.

...if you catch your spouse using your digger in the garden and somehow feel its been violated.

...if your spouse buys you detecting accessories for your anniversary and it makes you tear up.

...if your spouse hints at wanting jewelry, you grab your detector and go to the beach rather than going to a jeweler.

Now it's your turn to add to the list.
